OVERVIEW

This practical and interactive training course has been designed for ECAs and financial institutions seeking to improve or implement corporate governance best practices. Research has shown that a well-governed company performs better in the long run. Better companies also give rise to improved societies, creating sustainable business practices, which contribute to the overall economic development of the countries where they operate.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

To address the challenge of providing a clear understanding of corporate management, the course provides participants with key concepts and how this understanding can be turned into best practices that add value to the company. In particular, participants will be introduced to SACE's corporate governance, the different roles of boards and committees, director responsibilities and the implementation of governance in day-to-day activities.

The participants will be able to:

- Design and implement a sound system of corporate governance within an ECA
- Provide a structured and organic prevention and control system with the aim of preventing offences
- Linked to business and reducing, in particular, the risk of illegal behavior

Exonerate the company from administrative liability in the event of any offences being committed by persons employed by the company or acting in its name or on its behalf

- Communicate governance procedures and increase awareness among those who operate in areas of risk
